Church Struck By Lightning At Georgetown

Minister and Wife
Shocked; Fire Is Soon Extinguished

The Georgetown Methodist Episcopal church was struck by lightning about 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning, during the sermon of Rev. Max Opp. The bolt struck the church steeple and ran down the side of the church, knocking out a window light and setting fire to the building.

Rev. Opp was knocked down and his wife was rendered unconscious for a few seconds. Other members of the congregation were shocked, but not injured.

Members of the congregation upon learning of the fire obtained ladders and brought the flames under control, while others started to carry out furniture and fixtures of the church.

Only slight damage resulted to the building. No insurance was carried to cover the loss.

In the afternoon a crowd of persons curious to see results of the lightning damage gathered about the place of worship.

Car Overtakes In An Accident

A Pontiac sedan owned and driven by V. T. "Tommy" Nations, was overturned three times on Highway 13 seven miles north of Warrensburg Sunday evening, when "clipped by a Chevrolet car driven by Robert McAllister of Higginsville.

According to Nations, McAllister stated he evidently drowsed and his car swerved to the opposite side of the pavement, striking the rear left wheel. The tire on the Nations car was blown out causing the driver to lose control of his machine.

With Nations were Miss Ethel Mae Hartman and Miss Menervia Starkebaum, both of Concordia and Robert Long of 1811 South Carr avenue. None of the occupants of the car were injured seriously, receiving only minor bruises.

The Chevrolet car was only slightly damaged and none of its occupants were injured.

Ernest C. Martin, president, will preside over the meeting.

Palace of Archbishops Is Made Untenable By Raids

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Lambeth Palace, residential seat of the Archbishop of Canterbury, has been made uninhabitable by German bombs which fell some time ago, it was disclosed today.

The bombs forced the archbishop and his staff to move to residence in Canterbury.

The entire central and newer section of the palace, which was erected in 1828, were struck on the river side by Nazi bombs.

The archbishop disclosed the bombing of a diocesan conference. He voiced sympathy for persons who had lost their homes in air raids and said he spoke "in some measure as a fellow sufferer," since he had been bombed out at Lambeth.

Remarking that each night some 200 persons of the "poorest folk of Lambeth" had taken shelter in an old crypt beneath the chapel of Lambeth palace, the primate said:

"I only wish Hitler and Goering could see the astonishing patience, good humor and even cheerfulness of those people to realize the futility of their aims."

The blasts collapsed the central wall of the palace and caused havoc inside, but no one was reported injured.

The bombs fell at about the same time Westminster Abbey and the House of Lords were damaged.

Clearing Way To Send Checks For The Aged

Conference Held
In Settling of The Merit Dispute

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 7.—(P)—Settlement of Missouri's controversy over a Social Security merit system apparently cleared the way today for release of the state's federal allotment and early payment of October's overdue old age pensions.

Ed McDonald, regional Social Security director, recommended to the federal board that the state's funds—withheld for several weeks—be released at once.

The federal board will meet tomorrow at Washington to consider McDonald's recommendation.

McDonald acted after a conference here with Attorney General Roy McKittrick and Sen. Harry S. Truman about the merit dispute controversy which has caused the withholding of federal funds.

McKittrick—who has been asked by the state merit council for an opinion on the merit plan's legality under state laws—would not say what decision had been reached.

However, when asked "if there now remains any legal objections to installation of the merit plan," McKittrick replied "none that I know of."

The Social Security Commission said it asked McKittrick for a ruling after the attorney general "expressed the opinion that we have been acting illegally in our co-operation with the federal government in its merit system."

The federal board then stopped its matching grant to the state and Auditor Forrest Smith refused to pay the merit council's expenses until the legal question was settled.

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark stepped into the controversy last week by instructing the state commission to "take every legal step" necessary to release the federal allotment and proceed with the contemplated job placement examinations.

Bicycles Were Stolen

The bicycles were later found in front of 1422 South Harrison and 403 South Park avenue, where they had been abandoned by the persons who stole them.

Stark Assails Trade Barriers

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri, outspoken foe of interstate trade barriers, declared today "buy at home" campaigns were "stupid and destructive" and asserted lack of free trade between the states "is the route to economic destruction and war."

"When a state or nation stifles trade, it strikes at the pocketbook and at the market basket of its neighbor—and that, as we have seen so clearly in recent years, is the route to economic destruction and war," The Missouri executive said in a speech prepared for the 12th Boston conference on distribution.

Stark warned against an "economic breakdown" in the United States which he said could result from trade barriers. He described such an event as "a danger comparable to that of the war abroad."

"We must spare no effort in avoiding anything which tends to disrupt the national economy or to create dissension and disunity among the states x x x during this crucial period in our history," he declared.

Willkie In A Tour of Jersey

Civil Liberties Are Stressed By Nominee
For President

By THEODORE F. KOOP
JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 7.—(P)—Declaring that "no one man should be able to control a city," Wendell L. Willkie today described preservation of civil liberties as a primary phase of American defense.

The Republican presidential nominee chose to open a one-day campaign through northern New Jersey with a talk in this city, whose mayor, Frank Hague, he repeatedly has termed a Democratic "boss."

In a prepared excerpt of his speech, Willkie said European countries would not have "gone down in the black despair of dictatorship" if their people had treasured and fought for their civil rights.

"All the military defense on earth," he said, "won't do us any good if we don't have civil defense—moral defense—the defense of militant American consciences—first of all. Defense begins at home—right here in Journal Square with the civil liberties of every citizen of this community."

Saying that Jersey City residents would fight for their civil rights "if any foreigner muscled in here," Willkie continued: "You don't want to be one kind of American everywhere else and some other kind here at home. Any person or force that deprives you of the exercise of your civil liberties according to the Bill of Rights should be treated like the enemy he is."

Assails Infringement

"If you believe this, you will agree with me that no one man should be able to control a city. It can't be done without infringement on somebody's civil liberties. "Americans don't want those infringements in their communities. Americans don't want to be dictated to—even benevolently. Americans don't need to be given local permission for free assemblage—their constitution guarantees it to them."

Willkie said he understood that courteous treatment had been requested for him. Saying he was "very grateful," he added: "What kind of civil liberty is there if a certain big shot in some community must request the people of that community to give a hearing to somebody who wants to speak to them? How did he get that way?"

Willkie's Jersey tour, beginning this morning, will be continued by an auto caravan until night. He will speak from the Newark stadium at 8:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, over a nationwide radio hookup.

The presidential nominee spent a busy Sunday at his personal headquarters in New York, conferring, among others, with Republican Chairman Joseph W. Martin and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

It was disclosed last night by Willkie's press secretary that the nominee had met John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain, a week ago Saturday night at the home of a mutual friend. The meeting took place just after Willkie's speech at Yonkers.

Willkie proposed last night, in reply to a suggestion from "more than 50 prominent Americans," that October 23 be designated as "no third term day."

"When we are confronted by threats to our freedom from abroad," he said in a statement, "we cannot afford to risk a departure from our traditional system of free government at home."

Gov. Horner of Illinois Dies

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(P)—The political tempest of a presidential election year simmered down to a whisper in Illinois today as the body of the late Governor Henry Horner lay in state for a military funeral tomorrow.

Party and factional differences were temporarily brushed aside as Republican and Democratic leaders alike paid tribute to the 61-year-old, only two term Democratic governor, who died of a heart and kidney ailment early Sunday at suburban Winnetka after a two years' illness.

Official mourning for ten days, with flags at half staff on all public buildings, was proclaimed as the first official act of the new governor John Stelle, who banned a discussion of politics until after the funeral.

Stelle, who will complete the term expiring January 1, was a frequent intra-party political foe of Horner. He had charged before the last April primary election that the governor was disabled and announced that he would assume the duties as chief executive. Later he dropped his claims when administration leaders refused to recognize his efforts to take over the office.

Huge Spending For Defense

Outlay In The Current Year Be
Thirteen Billion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(P)—The treasury expects the current fiscal year to produce a peacetime spending record of $13,000,000,000, and a deficit of about $5,760,000,000.

The anticipated total expenditure would be the second highest in all American history, yielding only to the World War fiscal year 1919 when the outlay reached $18,522,895,000. The expected deficit would be exceeded only by the figures in the 1918 and 1919 fiscal years.

As Congress neared the end of the unprecedented appropriations for the government bookkeeping year which will end next June 30, officials contrasted the new outlook with the $8,424,191,570 spending budget that President Roosevelt submitted in January, before the huge defense program materialized.

The $13,000,000,000 spending estimate was predicated on actual cash disbursements on the more than $20,000,000,000 which this Congress either appropriated or authorized in the form of contract obligations.

Might Set Records

The $7,000,000,000 margin between the authorized total and the estimated $13,000,000,000 in actual disbursements presaged an unspent carryover to the next fiscal year which might set new records. President Roosevelt's requests for defense money last January totaled only $1,539,445,160. Now current estimates on actual expenditures for that purpose run around $5,750,000,000 including the cost of conscription. This compares with less than $5,000,000,000 spent in the first year of the World War and is surpassed only by the $11,000,000,000 in the last year of the war.

The looked-for $13,000,000 outlay in the 1941 fiscal year is almost 50 percent greater than the $9,537,000,000 of the 1940 fiscal year, which set the previous peacetime record.

Counting in the returns from the newly-enacted excess profits tax, the revenues this fiscal year are now being estimated at about $6,542,000,000—a total surpassed only in fiscal 1920 when the richest of the World War taxes were collected.

Is Fined $100 For Careless Driving

Fred Clifton, Kansas City, arrested Saturday night by Sergeant P. E. Corl of the highway patrol, this morning appeared before Justice of the Peace J. C. Connor and pleaded guilty to careless driving. Clifton was fined $100 and cost totalling $110.90.

Clifton was arrested just inside of the Pettis county line on Highway 50, east of Smithton. Several reports were received at the local police station and a call was made to Sergeant Corl of the man driving down the highway.

Motorists who followed him from Kansas City made the complaints.

Armed Forces of Nazis Into Rumania

Hint That Military
Protection of Oil
Fields Is Purpose

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BUCHAREST, Oct. 7.—(P)—Widespread evidence existed in Rumania tonight that all branches of Germany's defense forces as well as German industry were planning to aid and buttress the defense of Rumania.

It was learned reliably that this aid was on the way although official German and Rumanian quarters insisted that reports that large numbers of Nazi troops, with tanks and guns, already had arrived in the country were "premature."

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—(P)—Germany is in dead earnest about the guarantee she extended Rumania at the conclusion of the Vienna agreement Aug. 30 and hence she has sent armed contingents "precautionarily" into the diminished Balkan kingdom, authorized sources said today.

"We haven't forgotten British designs on Baku and other oil points," these sources commented, thereby hinting that military protection of oil fields is perhaps the prime motive in sending troops into Rumania.

"We don't do these things for fun," these sources said, referring to Germany's guarantees of Rumania's frontier after the Vienna award. "We are not like England, for instance, which guaranteed Poland, but left it in the lurch."

Asked whether Rumania felt threatened, these sources said the present movements of troops no doubt correspond with an understanding reached some time ago and are not provoked by any special act of the moment.

They were unable to state the size of the German contingents, but pointed out that the press has referred to a German general (whose position might make him commander of any force from a brigade to a field army) as being in Rumania.

Waxed Corpse of Girl Is Kept In Room Seven Years

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 7.—(P)—Police pieced together today the strange story of a 70-year-old man they accused of keeping in his bedroom for seven years the preserved body of a young woman whom he hoped to restore to life.

The man, a medical expert in x-ray holding degrees from Leipzig university in Germany, was booked as Karl Tanzler Van Cosel and was charged with removing the body of the 19-year-old woman from its grave without permission.

Van Cosel was quoted by Deputy Sheriff Ray Elwood: "I did not want one so beautiful to go to dust."

"I tried experiments to restore her to life. I hope still if I live long enough to bring her back."

Van Cosel declared he visited the crypt in which the young woman's body lay, and about two years after her death, decided to take the body away.

He said he secretly transferred it to Key West's U. S. Marine hospital, to which he had ready access as a former x-ray employee, and there treated the body chemically for a week to restore decomposed parts.

Then, secreting the remains in an old airplane he had purchased, he had it trucked to his home in a remote section of this island community, and applied beeswax to protect the outer tissue. He expressed a firm hope that inner cells could be reactivated with x-ray treatments.

His professed labor of love was interrupted yesterday when sheriff's deputies armed with a war-

Charles Weiteman charged jointly with Ernest Brieger with attempted robbery, took a severance in his case and asked for a change of venue. His case was set to Cooper county for trial, while the case of Brieger was set for October 14 before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman in the Pettis county court.

Robert Bell, charged with driving an automobile without the owner's permission, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

Vernon J. Johannigmeier, charged with driving a car while intoxicated pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

Theodore Kreisler, charged with stealing chickens in the night time, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years at Algoa Farms.

Andrew Burlingame and Floyd Craig charged with grand larceny, pleaded guilty and both were sentenced to two years each in Algoa Farms.

Alvin Wombles charged with petit larceny, along with Melvin Nelson, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail. The case of Nelson was set over to the January term of court.

Lee Dewitt charged with felonious assault, pleaded not guilty and his case set for October 11.

Claude Greer, charged with assault with intent to kill, entered no plea and the case was set for October 21.

Charles Butterfield, charged with burglary, case set for October 14.

Dwight Horn, charged with grand larceny, pleaded not guilty and case set for October 11.

Silas Lee, charged with robbery, case set for October 26.

Fred Williams, charged with burglary and larceny. Case set for October 29.

W. T. Summerskill, William Baker and William Carson, charged with grand larceny, no disposition.

Grover Lee Kabler, charged with grand larceny. Case set for October 15.

Samuel Byron, charged with driving a car while intoxicated, case set for October 22.

Clifton Tyler, charged with sodomy, pleaded not guilty and case set for October 25.

Deputies Relate Story

Deputies Elwood and Bernard Waite related this story: Van Cosel was an x-ray expert at the hospital to which the young woman was taken nine years ago for treatment of tuberculosis. He became enamored of her, and after her death, persuaded her family to allow him to have the body removed from the grave to a vault built at his expense.

Daily, the aging man spent hours in the vault.

"Then one day," Deputy Elwood quoted him, "I opened her coffin and found that the body was decaying. I did not want one so beautiful to go to dust. I stole the body about two years after she died and have had it with me ever since."

A member of the woman's family became suspicious and, upon a visit to Van Cosel's home, had a glimpse of the body on the bed. A search warrant was obtained and the deputies entered the home yesterday.

Elwood said Van Cosel readily admitted having the body. It was taken to an undertaking establishment, where attendants said he had done an excellent job of preserving the resemblance of the woman.

Members of the family viewed the body and identified it as that of the young woman.

Over Score Of Raiders Shot Down By British

BULLETIN
LONDON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Twenty-seven German air-planes were destroyed up to 7 p. m. (noon CST) in engagements over Great Britain today, it was said authoritatively tonight.

BULLETIN
LONDON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Nine German raiders were reported shot down today as Germany intensified her air war, after London's first quiet night in a month, and sent a series of large squadrons against this city.

Daylight raids, starting with attacks by single or small groups of planes, broadened into a series of thrusts with large numbers taking part.

The raiding planes appeared to concentrate their attacks in the London area on the southwestern districts of the city. Number of casualties, including some deaths, were reported.

During the afternoon more bursts of gunfire were heard in central London. Fuffs of shell bursts traced the course of a single raider flying across the capital from west to east.

Although the German "night shift" gave London its first rest in a month last night, causing only a brief alarm just after dark and again just before dawn, the British did not expect to be given such respite often.

Minister of Health Malcolm MacDonald announced a scheme for a large-scale removal of women and children from the London area.

The British bomber outfits also hammered at the Reich's "invasion" bases and war industrial centers. The air ministry announced a series of raids from Harlingen, in The Netherlands, to Boulogne, France, had been carried out last night and yesterday in a continuation of the "master plan" of crippling the Nazi war machine. Shipping and barge concentrations were attacked, the ministry said.

Informed sources also said Britain is considering a counter-attack in the Far East to Japan's joining of the axis in military alliance. They said Prime Minister Churchill may announce soon the reopening of the Burma road to war supplies for China.

Eastbourne, on the Sussex coast south of London, was visited by

GOP State-Wide Rally In Sedalia

Republicans plan a state-wide rally here on Tuesday, October 15, according to an announcement by Frederick Stueck of the state Republican headquarters.

On that occasion, two motor caravans are to converge at Sedalia, one to be headed by Forrest Donnell, candidate of the GOP for governor, and the other by Manuel "Cap" Davis, candidate for U. S. Senator.

Accompanying them are expected to be the state candidates William P. Elmer for lieutenant governor; Lloyd Miller for secretary of state; J. I. Waddell, for state auditor; Scott Peters for state treasurer; Roy Mabey for attorney general.

The intent is for this to be one of the major meetings of the GOP in the campaign. Tentative arrangements call for a late afternoon meeting and the big rally in the evening, in the circuit court room with Donnell and Davis to be the principal speakers.

Monday evening, October 14, the Pettis County Young Republican club will meet in the assembly room of the court house. Addresses will be presented.

On the same night the Young Negro Republican club is to have a banquet in the basement of Taylor chapel at 7 o'clock to be followed by an address by Ed. White, of St. Louis, a negro candidate for state representative.

Plans are also going forward for the address of United States Senator Charles L. McNary, candidate for vice-president, who speaks at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, October 18.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—The new alliance between Japan, Germany and Italy has revived discussions between the United States and Russia regarding a common policy in the far east.

Conversations to this end had been taking place all summer, but had made little progress. The Russians at that time were playing the British off against the Nazis, and figured they would jump to whichever side seemed to be coming out on top.

However, the Japanese alliance came as a dose of very cold water in Moscow's face. Foreign Minister Molotov apparently did not know for sure that the alliance was to be signed until about 24 hours in advance. And despite reassuring statements that Russia was being taken care of, there have been no actual commitments by the axis powers to the Soviet.

Of all the powers ringing the great land mass of Russia and Siberia, probably the oldest traditional enemy is Japan. The Russians have got along fairly well with Germany since the last war, have had their ups and downs with Great Britain, but with Japan there is a long and unmitigated enmity. Therefore, for Japan to become a part of the axis is a bitter pill for the Soviet to swallow.

It is reported that Russia is asking that part of Manchukuo be given her as a sop for the new alliance. It is also reported that the axis might give Russia the strait of the Bosphorus plus a sphere of influence through Iran to the Persian Gulf. But all these are merely reports.

Only tangible fact known here is that the Russians now seem to be a little more amenable to reason, and there may be a common understanding worked out between the United States and Moscow regarding Japan. So far the State Department is letting Russia have all the aviation gasoline it wants and also the machine tools previously ordered here—though these have been barred to Japan.

It's no easy job to pin down the Russians, but conversations along these general lines are proceeding.

NOTE: Despite Stalin's extreme ire at the Nazi-Japanese deal, it will not surprise U.S. observers if temporarily he pays lip service to the new setup or even flirts with a non-aggression pact—which, however, will be meaningless.

Legion Politics

There was one piece of politics at the American Legion convention in Boston which did not leak out—some hot rivalry between two Republican groups.

It happens that Hanford MacNider, assistant secretary of war under Coolidge, headed the Republican Service League until recently. It was his job to rally Legion votes for Republicans.

However, the Republican Service League was recently eulogized from under MacNider and put under Harry Colmery, former commander of the American Legion.

And at Boston, Colmery opened Willkie headquarters at the Statler hotel. This was the first time that a Legion convention had been used openly to boost one political candidate, and considerable resentment was expressed, much of it coming from the friends of Hanford MacNider. Democrats stood on the sidelines and grinned.

Copper Coppered

It hasn't been publicly announced, but the big copper moguls have assured the Defense Commission there will be no price kiting on this vital raw material.

The promise was not entirely voluntary. It followed some pointed prodding.

With defense production swinging into full stride, copper recently began showing signs of zooming skyward. Overnight there was a half-cent jump to 12 cents a pound.

To Defense Commissioner Leon Henderson, whose job is to police prices, this restiveness was unwarranted. He had a confidential dossier on copper containing certain interesting facts. One of them was that while the U. S. government was being charged 12 cents a pound, large quantities were being sold to Japan at less than 10 cents.

Another was that the U. S. copper producers were protected by a 4-cent tariff and that plenty of copper could be obtained as well under 12 cents if this tariff wall were leveled.

So Henderson "invited" the copper chiefs to Washington. They came, among them C. F. ("Con") Kelley, head of giant Anaconda Copper. The conference was amicable, but Henderson minced no words.

He said that the Defense Commission wanted to keep the domestic market intact for domestic producers, but that the commission would not hesitate to buy elsewhere if any profiteering were attempted. Also, that he knew where there was plenty of cheap copper and that the 4-cent tariff could be junked by an executive order.

The copper officials did not resist. They agreed to keep prices in check; asked only that future orders be so timed and spaced as to enable them to operate steady production schedules.

Scrap Over Scrap

Equally vital iron and steel scrap is next on Henderson's list. With defense demands mounting by leaps and bounds, scrap prices have been tugging at the leash. Since exports are barred to Japan, Henderson sees no reason for any price hurdling, so this week he has summoned both dealers and users for a private talk.

As in the case of copper, the Defense Commission knows where there are large, readily accessible supplies of scrap, and Henderson will make it clear to the dealers that if they want to retain the domestic market they will have to keep prices within bounds.

NOTE: Behind the scenes, Henderson's adviser in these matters is astute Bernard Baruch, head of the World War Industries Board.

The High Cost of Killing

How much is a human life worth? There have been many answers, widely varied. The chemical constituents of the body can be purchased in a drug store currently for about $1.05. A few weeks ago a cold criminal asked $100,000 for the life of a child, would have got it if his plans hadn't gone astray.

The Germans have their own answer.

London admits it suffered 400 deaths in a recent day's raids, when 2,200 tons of bombs were dumped on the city. That's an average of 5 1/2 tons of bombs for one human life.

Now in the United States a 1,000-pound bomb costs between $175 and $200, so 5 1/2 tons would run to between $1,650 and $2,200. In Germany, where labor is cheaper and factories are government-run, the cost may be somewhat lower. But in addition to the cost of the bomb, there must be planes and men to drop the bombs on London, and they must have gas and oil, food and shelter. It would be a fair estimate to say each life the German bombers have taken cost at least $2,000—and that's not counting plane losses.

That's the price Adolf Hitler is willing to pay for the life of one man or woman or child in his self-imposed task of carrying the Nazi kultur to England.

Blood For Britain

The blood of more than 3,600 Americans has been given to aid the English forces in the Battle of Britain. That many friends of democracy have donated a pint of blood each to be sent to British hospitals, where it will be used for transfusion to injured soldiers and civilians.

It's a generous, American project. Also, it's an amazing one—possible only through great forward strides by medical science. After the blood has been given, the red and white corpuscles are whirled out of it, its then mixed with a saline solution and put on ice until used. All this would have been impossible in the last war.

Typically American, too, is the list of donors. German refugees, Italian anti-Fascists, Russian Jews—a mixture that could be found only in the American melting pot.

One unidentified donor summed it up this way:

"Blue blood, or red blood—it is all democratic blood. Giving it this way is a lot easier on us than it would be to give it wholesale."

Schools for Weathermen

In its defense preparations, the army is even doing something about the weather. Science hasn't yet reached the point where it can control the elements and decide that tomorrow we should have rain or fog or sunshine, but at least it has gone far in perfecting its methods of forecasting.

A good share of Germany's success in air warfare has been attributed to that country's long-time study of weather forecasting. For the weather—if you can accurately foretell it far enough in advance—can be a powerful ally.

Taking the German lesson to heart, the U. S. army has set up a number of schools for meteorologists. At the California Institute of Technology, the largest of these, more than 100 army and navy men are to be trained.

They'll be taught long-range forecasting, and will be equipped to give accurate answers to the old question, "Are we going to have a nice day tomorrow?"

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday October 13, 1940.

Golden Text: Psalms 68:20, "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. . . . And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him" (James 5: 13 to first, 15).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Self-forgetfulness, purity, and affection are constant prayers. Practice not profession, understanding not belief, gain the ear and right hand of omnipotence and they assuredly call down infinite blessings. . . . The highest prayer is not one of faith merely; it is demonstration. Such prayer heals sickness, and must destroy sin and death" (pp. 15, 16).

It's The Main Issue

"One of the outstanding issues of the campaign—if not the primary one—is the foreign situation. All else dwindle into insignificance beside the problems of national defense and the preservation of our democratic system of life and government. Tommyrot and partisan twaddle about the national debt, the third term—about this and about that—all attract no interest. The war abroad and how it concerns us is foremost in every mind and heart. The people—a vast majority of them—have confidence in the masterful manner in which President Roosevelt has been meeting the international crisis. They realize full well that we need in the White House today and tomorrow the experience that President Roosevelt possesses. They know that it would be little short of a tragedy, with the world in its present state of turmoil, to entrust the destiny of this country to untried and inexperienced hands. Now, as never before, we need our best leadership—our proven leadership—at the helm of the ship of state. The fate of democratic government, abroad as well as at home, hangs thereon."—Democratic State Committee.

EVERY PART OF HER BODY STIFF, ACHE

Was Extremely Nervous, Had No Pep Or Energy, Dizzy Spells Were Frequent Before KruGon Came To Her Rescue

"I have been given such surprising results after a short trial of this modern capsule remedy," said Mrs. Harold Hanline, 816 Vermont St., Hannibal, Missouri, "Since a stubborn case of constipation and the clogging of those intestinal poisons I had been in an awful condition. I was so weak, and no energy or ambition and was really a nervous wreck. Then frequent kidney action caused me constant discomfort as I could never get the rest and sleep I needed. Every part of my body became stiff and achy and then those sharp shooting pains developed. Dizzy spells would attack me until I could hardly stand alone . . . but that was all before I had learned of KruGon."

MRS. HAROLD HANLINE

"KruGon did not hesitate in getting to work on my stubborn case of ill health," continued Mrs. Hanline. "Now that I am getting regular elimination and those clogged intestinal impurities have been removed I am able to eat solid, nourishing foods without fear of distressing effects following. Night risings do not disturb me, I rest and sleep well, nerves are calm, have been relieved of those horrible dizzy spells but best of all that miserable stiff, achy feeling does not trouble me now. I have plenty of pep and energy and am feeling fine . . . thanks to the efficient action of KruGon."

KruGon is sold by McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 W. Main St., this city and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Razzle-dazzle

People who read the sport pages know what razzle-dazzle means. It stands for football brilliance. The team that has it is flashy with unexpected passes and trick plays. A razzle-dazzle team gives the spectators plenty to yell about.

Razzle-dazzle is one of the spiciest ingredients of good football. It packs them in, and the customers go home satisfied.

Now, you might think such a satisfactory football ingredient would be a pretty nice thing to pass around to business in general. To merchants, for example. But you'll suddenly realize that razzle-dazzle is the last thing you want to find in a merchant you're dealing with!

Brilliant trickery is fine and dandy on the football field. But it's a different story in the marketplace. You want to dodge a razzle-dazzle merchant . . . or manufacturer . . . as you would the plague. And luckily, it's not hard to do.

Patronize those merchants and manufacturers who advertise. They're calling all their plays out in the open . . . for everybody to see. Merchants who advertise are bound to keep faith with the public . . . if they intend to remain in business.

No Immediate Recess By The U. S. Congress

Hopes For Such This Week Seem To Fade Somewhat

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Hopes of Democratic leaders for a congressional recess to start this week and continue until November 18 today appeared once more to have faded somewhat.

In the House, leaders said that introduction of a recess resolution would go over at least until tomorrow or Wednesday. To this Speaker Rayburn added that he did not "think" any resolution would be offered if an informal check of members showed there were not enough votes to assure its approval.

There was some talk, moreover, that Democratic leaders would refuse to agree to a series of three-day recesses in event the Nov. 18 resolution was not accepted. Thus Congress might remain almost constantly in session.

Favors Brief Pauses
Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, reiterated today that he was opposed to longer than three-day recesses and was "not frightened by threats" of a continuous session. A number of Democrats also were opposed to going home.

"The big thing," Martin said, "is to keep this Congress in session to act if the occasion demands it."

The latest threat to the elusive recess was the controversy which has developed over the informal ruling of Attorney General Jackson that decisions of the National Labor Relations Board were "binding and conclusive" on all government departments.

Critics charged that such a rule might mean that firms convicted of violating the Wagner Labor Act would be denied defense contracts, to the detriment of the rearmament program. Jackson replied that he had not ruled on whether violators should be denied contracts, nor had any such opinion been requested.

Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) said, however, he thought Congress should act to overturn Jackson's informal ruling. Republican colleagues backed him up, but there was no indication whether majority support could be lined up for such action.

Continue Representations

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Well-informed British circles said today the Rumanian government's explanation of mistreatment of British subjects was "not satisfactory" and therefore "representations are being maintained."

While the British government still awaits full confirmation of reports of maltreatment, such information as has been received thus far "looks reliable," the spokesman said.

"It has been partially admitted by Rumanian authorities, who are inclined to place the responsibility on the Iron Guard," he added.

The spokesman laughed when asked the difference between the Iron Guard and the government now that Dictator Ion Antonescu has joined the fascist organization.

"That's a fine point," he said. Sir Reginald Hoare, British minister in Rumania, is making inquiry and the government "hopes to receive information from him soon," the spokesman said, adding that there was no question as yet of breaking diplomatic relations with Rumania.

The government also is awaiting further details and confirmation "of reports that Germans sent troops and anti-aircraft guns into Rumania, to shall we say, protect their interests there."

The government is without information as to a report broadcast by the Rome radio that a Rumanian government in exile is being formed in London, the spokesman said.

Their hearing will be held in the court of Judge C. W. Bente, sitting as ex-officio justice of the peace.

Mass Assaults of Nazis Renewed After Quiet Night

raiders which swooped low to spray the town with machine-gun fire, British dispatches reported.

Towns on the Kent coast were bombed.

Numerous Brief Battles

Bursts of machine gun and anti aircraft fire told of brief battles during the second and third raids, and apparently the bombers were driven off.

But they returned over a southwestern London district, and were met by ground fire and British fighters.

Some yellow-nosed Messerschmitts dived on the balloon barrage at Dover, and shot down two of the big sausages.

The Germans took advantage of brilliant sunshine which succeeded thick clouds and storms yesterday and last night, when air activity was greatly reduced.

As they returned to the siege British authorities let it be known that hallowed Westminster Abbey, burial place of illustrious British dead and the scene of the coronations of her kings and queens, had been damaged by a recent bomb, and that Lambeth Palace, residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, has been made uninhabitable.

The first day raiders were seen streaking at 20,000 feet over England's east coast, bursts of anti-aircraft fire ringing them.

Some bombs were dropped by the first planes. Windows of a convent where 12 nuns were praying were smashed. The nuns were unhurt.

By mid-morning the city had a second raid warning. Persons in central London saw puffs like shell bursts over the Thames Estuary and raiders were reported to have dropped 12 bombs on a residential section of southeastern London.

Two homes were demolished and rescue crews rushed to the scene to bid for bodies in the wreckage. At least two were known to have been killed.

The pre-dawn alarm was brief and the guardian guns fell silent again when a German plane, believed on a reconnaissance flight over the northwestern outskirts of the city disappeared.

Serial Story

This Could Be Your Story

By Marguerite Gahagan

Copyright 1940, NEA Service, Inc.

All characters, organizations and incidents of this serial are entirely fictitious.

YESTERDAY: At the gambling place, Sue Mary overheard Nick and Vera discussing young Clark. He is deep in debt. Vera has suggested he sell his own property for the airport site. If he does, it will defeat the governor, an old friend of Ross Clark. Sr. Joe tells Sue Mary he saw Nick in a picket line at the plant.

SUE MARY IS WATCHED

CHAPTER XX

SUE MARY felt they were watching her. She felt that Vera watched her at the office, and that Natalie watched her every moment at the apartment.

While she was putting on cleaning cream before the mirror she looked up to see Natalie reflected there, her eyes staring at Sue Mary's face. Somehow she managed to smile.

"I can't seem to keep powder on," she said pointlessly. "This heat's terrible." But she felt rather than saw the watchfulness in Natalie's answering smile.

And Joe, too, was watching her. Tomorrow her week of grace would be up and still she had not moved from the apartment, still she had not broken with the YP group.

She knew that he would wait for her to call him and say she had broken her word. Joe's word was good. If he promised her to do something he would do it, and he expected Sue Mary to do likewise.

She tried not to think of what he would believe. All her promises of love, all her plans for their future—what would he think, what could he think, when he knew she had broken her word? She had made no move to change the situation of which he so thoroughly disapproved.

So she didn't call him. It was their night to have a date, but she didn't try to find him. She didn't know what she could say, what explanation she could offer that wouldn't involve him, too, in this nightmare through which she felt she was moving. And she didn't hear from him.

Another week went by. The papers carried stories of the airport site committee meeting and promising to have a site selected in a few days.

Campaign ballyhoo was mounting. Governor Miller's forces emphasized the need of keeping in office a man of integrity, a man who had safeguarded the interests of the people in the past; a man who saw the need of national defense, and a man with a sane view of the future.

to tear him down; continued to stress the necessity of putting Fritz King in office: a man who would help the workers; who would not permit the state money to be spent on needless defense expenditures, while the relief budget would be pared, and the capitalists would benefit.

OUT at the Smithson factory the picket line continued to grow. One department had shut down and Gull Plane announced it would have to go behind schedule unless it got parts immediately.

Vera continued to go out with Young Ross Clark. Kitty's eyes were continually stormy and her mouth tightened into a red bow as she filed and typed and watched Vera.

It was late afternoon when Miss Grant called Sue Mary.

"I'm sorry to do this to you at such an hour," she apologized. "But Mr. Clark is home. Sick again. Too much worry and work. Anyway, he wants to dictate some notes and he needs some papers and you're the only one I can send."

"You'll have to work late, but you can take time off tomorrow. Come back here tonight and finish the work he gives you and then sleep in tomorrow. Will you do it?"

Sue Mary was glad to have to work. It might take her mind off her own problems. "Yes," she said. "Of course I'll do it, and I really don't mind."

THE big Clark house was quiet.

She had a glimpse of the dining room as the butler ushered her to the library where she and Mr. Clark would work. Candle light flickered on the big table throwing shadows on the crystal and china and linen, and a maid in black with a white starched apron and tiny cap, such as one saw in the movies, was fixing flowers.

And in the library, old Ross Clark munched a sandwich and sipped a glass of milk.

"Indigestion," he said, gruffly, and Sue Mary wondered just how much enjoyment he got from his fortune, when worry and responsibility could make him turn into such a haggard, gray old man.

They worked steadily, accomplishing much, until finally he pushed the papers away and sank back in his chair.

"We've done a good day's work," he said. "You're no quitter."

She didn't know how to answer. As long as he was impersonal, as her boss, she could meet him, but when he became just a weary, sick, old man, grateful to her for her help, she couldn't find words.

"You know my son?" he demanded. "I've seen him in the office." "Not often," he said. "Not often. He doesn't like work. Not our kind anyway. The new generation. We've slipped up somehow with them. They lack what it takes. They want life the easy way."

He lighted a cigar and seemed to forget her presence. Then he said, "What about that Vera Oliver—the dark-haired one? He sees her, doesn't he?"

Sue Mary caught her breath. She felt a hidden strength, an abrupt awareness in the old man. "I believe so."

"You know so. Everyone does. He's a fool. I thought when the governor appointed him to that airport committee he might settle down. He likes aviation. He can fly a plane. I thought when Russell named him to that board he'd be serious. But I don't know. I don't know."

It was then that Mrs. Clark came in the room. She was a slight woman, her hair turning gray.

"You've worked too hard and much too long, Ross," she said, smoothing his hair. "You're tired, and this young woman must be tired as well. If you won't spare yourself you should at least think of others." Her voice was low and kind. Clark looked at her and smiled.

"Maybe so, my dear. I guess I have kept this young lady here too long. We'll send her down in the car. I'm afraid some of this work must be done tonight, too."

Sue Mary smiled at them both. "It's all right. I knew it had to be done. I'll rest in the morning."

"Well, I hope someone can rest," he said, and his wife laughed and took Sue Mary's arm.

"The car will be right here, my dear." She stopped at the table in the big hall and touched a vase of roses. "Would you like these? They're from my garden."

Out in the car, speeding back to town, Sue Mary buried her tired face in the fragrance of the flowers. Old Ross Clark, for all his illness and age, knew his son, and she believed, feared what he might do.

But, she told herself, he has no idea just how far he'll go, or how easily he can be led—with Vera to do the leading and Nick the suggesting.

chotherapy, on April 11, 1930, Mrs. D had a remarkable experience.

For three months she had been ill, and for six weeks of that time had not felt able to do her bit of housework, and had been spending most of her time in bed. The house was not cleaned. No supper was awaiting her husband when he came home at night.

Although she felt scarcely able to walk or even to stand, Mrs. D made herself travel from her part of the city to the dispensary one morning. She was carefully examined, and no signs of organic disorder could be discovered. Mrs.

D's own words will tell what then happened.

"Dr. Pratt said there was nothing the matter with my back, so I got up and walked." She had been unable to walk without support since Christmas because of pain in the small of her back.

Local doctors had recommended a special corset or an operation, but without any artificial aids or any medicine Mrs. D went merrily that day after leaving the dispensary, did a washing after she reached home, and surprised her husband by having his supper on the table when he arrived after his day's work.

For six weeks Mrs. D. spent most of her time in bed.

"I feared cancer, hardening of the arteries, and such things, and watched my color, and listened to neighbors' suggestions and diagnoses; but I had Dr. Pratt's word for it that there is nothing the matter," she said, and from that moment she entered again into life in a more vigorous fashion. That was more than ten years ago. When seen last spring Mrs. D presented a fine appearance of health and vigor. Bad thought-habits, bad habits of emotional reaction, painful conflicts in the mind and spirit, repressions and complexes, unadjustments and adjustments to the conditions under which life must be lived—these are responsible for multitudinous ills and suffering.

You must learn how to correct your bad mental and emotional habits. Many people have done so as they learned the art of controlling their thoughts and directing them into new and better channels.

Little World Series Newark (IL) 6, Louisville (AA) 2; (Newark leads, 3 games to 1.)

World Series Returns To Cincinnati Buck Newsom Blanks Cincinnati 8-0 At Detroit Sunday

By GALE TALBOT CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—(P)—One of the most unexciting world series in memory of man came back to this city today for a return engagement, with the Detroit Tigers leading the Cincinnati Reds three victories to two and needing only one more to make it blanko. The general expectations was that the cruel war of attrition would continue to the bitter end, that today was he Reds' turn to win, and that the 1940 baseball championship would finally be decided late tomorrow with everybody concerned bordering upon complete exhaustion. Shutout 8 To 0 By a grieving but brilliant Bobo Newsom in yesterday's fifth game at Detroit, the Reds figured to square it at three-all today behind Bucky Walters, who tamed the Tigers with a three-hitter in the second game here last week. Bucky's scheduled mound rival again was Schoolboy Rowe, who got rough treatment from the Reds the last time he faced them. They slammed him from the hill and went on to win without an anxious moment. Manager Del Baker, of course, hoped that "Schoolie" had recovered his stuff since then and would knock the Reds kicking today. But he knew it was only an outside chance. Final Game at Cincinnati Like everybody else around here, Baker, down in his heart, must have felt that the final decisive struggle would be fought on Crosley field tomorrow, his great Buck Newsom coming back with one day's rest to oppose Cincinnati's Paul Derringer, who defeated the Tigers' 5 to 2, in last Saturday's fourth game. Newsom's aged father had died after seeing his big son pitch the opening victory in Cincinnati, and Buck was strung up like a fiddle emotionally when he went to the hill again he was determined to pitch another "for dad." And he did. He pitched one of the greatest games of his life. But his teammates bettered the Red pitchers, starting with Junior Thomas, so quickly and violently that Buck's magnificent effort practically was wasted. Newsom gave the Reds only three hits, one a grounder past Dick Bartell that a more sprightly shortstop would have gobbled up. Only one red reached second base. He struck out seven Cincinnati batters and walked only two.

Series Receipts Over A Million

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 7.—(P)—The 1940 world series is the first million dollar series since 1937 and the ninth in history. After the fifth game at Detroit yesterday, the receipts totaled $1,057,598.10, including $100,000 received from the sale of the broadcasting rights which went into the players' pool. In event the present series goes seven full games and the gate receipts at Cincinnati are up to the standard of the first two contests, the all-time record gate of $1,304,399 for series coming Yankees and New York Giants, will be in danger. Yesterday's attendance of 55,189 and gate of $224,597 at Detroit was the largest to date for a 1940 series game.

So we hitched our wagon to a FIREBALL

THE FIREBALL DOES IT!

Modern gasoline have high octane ratings to permit higher compressions without "ping." Note how this piston, which can be used only in valve-in-head engines, rolls the fuel charge into the shape of a flattened ball that centers around the new, smaller, racing-car type spark plug. Fired at its very heart, this more highly compressed fuel lets go with such full-force, "ping-free" wallop that any gasoline of 75 octane rating (now available at standard fuel prices) may be used in the 115-hp. engine. Any fuel of 80 octane rating serves in the 125- and 165-hp. engines.

delivers more miles per gallon throughout the whole performance range on regular-priced gasoline!

This is the Buick FIREBALL principle, latest development of Buick's exclusive Dynaflash design.

There's still more to the story in the wonders worked by Compound Carburetion.

A standard part of Buick SUPER, CENTURY, ROADMASTER and LIMITED engines, this fuel-supply system lets you travel at fifty on the same meager fuel ration you ordinarily expend to get thirty, and delivers up to 10% or 15% more miles per gallon of gasoline.

You can have it in your Buick SPECIAL for a small extra charge—and step up your 115-horsepower engine to a wallop 125.

But in big engine or bigger, you get plus-power from less gas—even the 165-hp. 1941 engines giving more miles per gallon than last year's 107-hp. engines at speeds above 40!

*According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, a super motor which travels with a series of explosions like the shock waves of a great projectile is called a "FIREBALL."

Cupped in new contours to complement the dome of the cylinders, they roll the inrushing fuel charge into a flattened and turbulent ball, packed fat with potential power.

Concentrated about the racing-car type spark plugs, that explosive ball is fired from its very heart.

So great is its extra thrust that the same-size engine which last year developed 107 horsepower now pours out a super-efficient 115—and
